

The lengths of the leaves of a particular type of tree are normally distributed with mean μ cm. The lengths, x cm, of a random sample of 12 leaves of this type are recorded. The results are summarised as follows.

$$\Sigma x = 91.2 \qquad \Sigma x^2 = 695.8$$

Find a 95% confidence interval for μ .

[4]